HOMECOMING/INAUGURATION HELD

Football rally. Bonfire. Motorcade. Floats, Queen. Court of Beauty, Arch rival Stetson.

This was the scene of the Rollins College Homecoming 1948 but with the dropping of intercollegiate football in 1949, such scenes and Homecoming became obsolete at Rollins.

The closest thing to a Homecoming celebration Rollins had in the fifties and sixties was Fiesta Weekend. There was still a parade, with floats, and a King and Queen of Fiesta were elected, a penny a vote. There was a mid-way set up on the Sandspur Bowl with games and rides and the funds raised from the weekend went to student scholarships. The weekend ended with a formal Ball at which the King and Queen were announced. It was great fun, but that too fell "by the wayside."

Homecoming was brought back in 1968 to celebrate the opening of the Enyart Alumni Field House, it was not continued.

However, Rollins College has once again revived the Homecoming tradition to the theme of "Inaugural Fiesta."

Miss Martha Makarias, a Rollins senior, and chairman of Homecoming Weekend, stated that the "Inaugural Fiesta" theme was chosen for nostalgic purposes, because Rollins College Homecomings used to be called fiestas.

This year's Homecoming festivities of course were updated and centered around the Inauguration of Dr. Thaddeus Seymour, twelfth president of Rollins College.

The weekend began with fireworks display over Lake Virginia. Immediately following the lakeside party, students returned to their respective campus residence hall to decorate the housefronts in the Fiesta theme. Housefront decorations were judged and prizes awarded at 9:30 a.m. Saturday, November 4.

The Presidential Inauguration took place at 11 a.m. Saturday, November 4, in Knowles Memorial Chapel. Following the ceremonies, faculty, staff, alumni and friends of Rollins College were invited to attend a reception at Cornell Fine Arts Center.

Saturday afternoon, students participated in water sports competition.

Evening festivities began at 6:30 p.m. Saturday, with cash bars and a buffet set up on the Patio behind the Student Union. The Patio has been relandscaped and decorated with umbrella tables and benches. It was a beautiful setting for the dinner, and dancing, which followed with music provided continuously by two bands.

The weekend offered something for everyone, no matter what era or connection one has or has had with the Rollins family. It was truly a "homecoming" for many who attended and surely for Rollins' new President and family.

POLLY TALKS ABOUT 'NEW HOME'

By Polly Seymour

Bill Moore (Liz's husband), Liz, Polly, Thad, Abigail, Mary, Thad Jr., son Sam was not pictured in England at the time.

"We love Rollins, and we hope you will too!" Those words, often repeated to us in the past six months by alumni, faculty, Winter Park residents and students, help to explain how much being at Rollins College means already to the Seymours. There is a warmth and eagerness and enthusiasm at Rollins which makes us feel that the college and its community setting are unique and wonderful. Over and over, in talking with alumni who live nearby, I have heard that people who went to college here "just couldn't ever leave" or that they have managed to move back to the Orlando area, because central Florida and the fellowship of Rollins was important to them. Nothing could speak more eloquently to the strength of a college than that kind of loyalty and affection; nothing could make us happier than to join such a nice family.

We came to Winter Park in June, after nine very happy years in Indiana, at Wabash College. The move was accomplished with the impressed help of four of our five children, who were very good with hefting heavy furniture, deciding which of their school mementoes could not possibly be abandoned, and, of course, sharing in the proceeds of what we came to call our permanent floating garage sale. It was a happy, hectic summer; we had fun settling into the comfortable house on Lakewood Drive and getting to know the area, from supermarkets to beaches, from hardware stores to the Annie Russell Summer Theater, not to forget excellent restaurants, museums and what we have learned, with resident superiority, to call "attractions." It was a good beginning.

Since then, our elder son, Thad, has camped in Colorado and Arizona and now is returned to New Hampshire where he teaches history and coaches swimming and cross-country at Kimball Union Academy. A recent Dartmouth graduate, he intends to pursue an advanced degree and a career in education. Sam, who is a senior at Dartmouth, looks to Law School in 1979. He ended the summer with a camping trip to California. Mary Duffie is taking her junior year away from Smith and joining the Rollins family, literally. Now spending the fall term in Ireland with the Rollins Overseas Program, she is absorbing Irish history, literature and traditions;

she will be on campus at Rollins for winter and spring terms, and thinks the president's office will make a fine location for laundry pick-up. Our oldest daughter, Liz, sidestepped the moving fun, going instead to be with her husband Bill in Europe for the summer; Bill teaches English at Wyoming Seminary in Wilkes Barre, Pennsylvania and Liz has been free-lance writing since they moved there a year ago. Formerly she worked in alumni/-development affairs at Smith, her college. Abigail, the youngest Seymour, is probably the most participatory Floridian to date; she spent the summer learning to sail and waterski, and swimming competitively with the Rollins-sponsored Blue Dolphins. Abigail is now well-launched in sixth grade here, and has an incredible number of new friends of all ages, all over town. It is a mark of the warm welcome from Rollins students that frequently Abigail has been invited to attend barbecues and receptions with us; she is very much at home on the campus. She has thoughts of becoming a Rollins student one day, but wisely realizes she'd best master decimals first.

People often ask me what it's like to be the wife of a magician (Thaddeus is an excellent amateur, and no, I don't know how he does those tricks;) being married to a

ALUMNI/COLLEGE AGENTS

The Board of Directors of the Alumni Association in May of '78 approved a new program for the development of an agent program for Rollins Alumni. The program was drafted by the Alumni Annual Fund committee in June with recruitment of agents being accomplished over the summer.

Phase I of the program began October first with 126 alumni volunteers making personal contact with fellow alumni residing in the agent's locale. The process of "personal contact" is an ongoing element of the program taking most of FY 78-79 to make contact with all alumni.

The Board of Directors and the Alumni Annual Fund Committee are one hundred percent behind the program and are actively involved in this year's Alumni Annual Fund Drive. An article on the Alumni-College Agent Program is featured in this issue.

ALUMNI ANNUAL FUND

Each year alumni are asked to make a contribution to the Alumni Annual Fund. The past two years alumni have given generously to the Fund with substantial increases in monies being realized each year. This trend must continue.

Frankly without the contributions from alumni Rollins cannot continue to be what it has always been....a college of opportunity and quality. If Rollins is to continue to improve programs, provide financial assistance to qualified students and assist the faculty in its quest for academic excellence, it is mandatory that Rollins has strong support from its alumni.

Let me once again explain the importance of a gift, regardless of size. The number of contributing alumni is a key to our success in the area of foundation grants. The figure "% of alumni donors" must be over 20% to warrant consideration. We are low at 13%.

To effect a meaningful change in this percentage a large number of non-donor alumni must become contributors. This year the Alumni Association does not have a "challenge grant" as an incentive to broaden donor participation. The Association has the College, its reputation as a quality institution and its record of service to people, as its primary motivation to warrant alumni support.

Many experts in fund raising have advised me not to ask alumni for a specific level of contribution. They believe that the prospective donor should be permitted to search his conscience to make the moral decision on "to support or not to support"... Once the prospect makes the decision to support your cause the level of support will be commensurate with the strength of his commitment to the cause.

I so happen not to agree with the experts. The members of the Class of '78 were asked to send at least $5.00 to the Alumni Annual Fund this year. We have received gifts from these recent graduates each in excess of the requested $5.00 level. This seems to contradict the experts.

A gift of $5-$10 this year will play a strong role in strengthening the academic and cultural programs of Rollins. I have also been advised not to make this statement - a gift of $10.00 from each Alumnus will enable us to reach and surpass our goal ($10 x 18,000 alumni = $180,000). We really have but one goal and that is to ask each alumna/alumnus of Rollins College to make a contribution to the Alumni Annual Fund this year.

THE ROLLINS CLUB

The local Central Florida Alumni Club, The Rollins Club, held a reception for Dr. and Mrs. Thaddeus Seymour at Sea World on September 30. The event was well attended with much enthusiasm expressed by attendees in greeting the Seymours.

The Rollins Club offers its members a variety of social activities throughout the year. Membership in the Rollins Club is available at $3.00 per single and $5.00 for family.

The Rollins Club is planning a luncheon on December 4, 1978 at the Alumni House, according to Mr. Larry Simo, president of the Club. The luncheon will be at 12:00 noon with Mr. Robert Newton Peck, author and teacher at Rollins College, as guest speaker. Some of Mr. Peck's works are currently being prepared for a T. V. series. This should prove to be a very interesting and entertaining meeting. All Rollins Club members should make plans NOW to attend.

SCEARA

Alumni of the Central Florida area have received a recent program announcement of Cultural and Educational activities sponsored by the Alumni Association for alumni, only. The Fall/early Winter schedule features a variety of events such as a coffee with Mrs. Seymour, wife of Rollins new president, a theatre party, a classic film festival, art seminar and an international travel evening.

The S.C.E.A.R.A. program focuses attention on providing alumni access to the mainstream, the "life" of the college through programming events which are cultural, education and recreational. S.C.E.A.R.A. events have met with a great deal of success this summer and thus far this fall. Alumni in Central Florida are encouraged to attend one or more of the events. Our spring schedule will be released in early December.

DOUBLE YOUR DOLLARS

Please remember to take advantage of your corporation's Matched Gift Program. Over 700 businesses and corporations match gifts of their employees. Your $10 becomes $20: your $20 becomes $40. Check with your Personnel Officer.

AREA ALUMNI/PARENT MEETINGS

Dr and Mrs. Thaddeus Seymour will be making visitations to several areas of the country this year. Dr. Hicks and I will accompany the Seymours to assist our alumni hosts with the introduction of the Seymours to the Rollins family.

Our present schedule reads as follows: October 22nd, Darien, Connecticut; October 23rd, New York City; October 24th, Westchester County/White Plains; November 12th, Hartford; November 14th, Boston; December 7th, Washington and December 8th, Baltimore.

Plans are being drafted for trips to San Diego, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Chicago, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Atlanta, Houston and Philadelphia. Visits to Florida cities are also being planned.

It is, of course, impossible for us to visit all areas of the country this year. Hopefully, this year and next we will be able to visit most areas having large concentrations of alumni.

A PRIDE OF PRESIDENTS

EDITORS NOTE:

This is the first of a series to be presented on various Presidents of Rollins College. It seems an appropriate time for such an article at the beginning of a new presidency for the College. Our archivists Jane Fletcher '75 and Mannee Rawa, '76, we feel, have done an interesting and somewhat unusual presentation and we hope you will enjoy reading it as much as we have.

By Jane F. Fletcher and Mannee Rawa
of the Rollins Archives

Seated at a round table in Pinehurst, President Seymour glances around at a troupe of former Presidents of Rollins College, Jack Critchfield, Hugh McKean, Hamilton Holt, George M. Ward, William F. Blackman, and Edward P. Hooker. It is a distinguished-looking group.

"Gentlemen, I've called you here to give me some insight into what Rollins College is as an institution. As the new boy on the block I am hoping that you, as the old boys, can provide me with a frame of reference. Dr. Hooker, as the first President of Rollins, may I ask you to describe to me the beginnings of Rollins College?"

HOOKER

"I spent those months before the opening on November 4th in finding faculty and raising money. The educational division of the Congregational Church promised operating funds but money for buildings had to be raised. In the late summer a building for general purposes, Knowles Hall, named after the donor, and Pinehurst Cottage were begun. But we had to start classes in the Congregational Church and moved a few weeks later to White Hall which was a large room above the drug store. Our first building was dedicated in March of 1886. Our fifty to sixty students ranged in age from elementary school to college age. Because there were no adequate public schools available at that time we provided school for all ages, in part to prepare young people for the college level we were able to offer. We developed departments of Mental and Moral Sciences, Latin, Greek, Natural Science, French, German, Spanish, English, History, Music and Art. Our library started with a Bible and a second-hand dictionary, but in six years we had 3,000 volumes and equipment including specimens of natural science, surveyor's instruments, a mounted skeleton and a five-inch telescope. Our first college commencement was in 1890 with two young lady graduates. It was a proud occasion to present college diplomas to Miss Clara Louise Guild and Miss Ida May Missildine. Of course I held a President's Reception that evening and served ice-cream and cake, and everyone seemed to enjoy the music of Miglionico's Orchestra from Jacksonville.

"Dr. Hooker, may I ask you what your fees were in those days?" inquired President Seymour.

"Well, now, as I recall, Frederick Lyman first brought the matter of a college in Florida to my attention and I preached on the subject in January of 1884. Two months later, in March, Reverend Bingham read a similar appeal from Miss Lucy Cross to the First Annual Meeting of the Congregational Association of Florida which met here in Winter Park. A committee was formed to present at the next annual meeting a report on the Public Schools of Florida and Higher Education. I presented the paper the following year on "The Mission of Congregationalism in Florida." I remember quite clearly telling them that it has been a part of the mission of Congregationalism to carry higher learning wherever it has gone. I felt that the day had come to see the founding of a Christian college in this fair state. This resolution passed the next day and the search for a site began. Winter Park celebrated being chosen for the location on April 17th of 1885 with the peal of church bells and in the light of bonfires of fat pine set along the streets. I left immediately to go north to raise endowment. I rather fancy that has been a presidential task ever since.

Around the table all the heads nodded while President Blackman said "Amen," and Holt gave a brisk "Hear! Hear!"

"Hmmm, yes, I remember, tuition was $18 per term for a three-term academic year. We started our board at $48 per term but later reduced it to $36. A furnished room with light came to $12 per year, the total would be $234 per year."

Jack Critchfield gave a sigh of pure envy and asked, "What about rules and regulations?"

"Oh, we didn't have a great many. Daily attendance at chapel, no use of intoxicating drinks, no tobacco on the college campus, and we prohibited all forms of gambling and loitering in billiard saloons or similar places of resort. On Friday evenings, gentlemen were permitted to call upon ladies in the reception room of the ladies cottage. But the young men and young ladies were segregated otherwise. Lights out at nine-o'clock, of course."

"That's unbelievable," muttered Dr. Critchfield.

"And what about recreation?" inquired President Seymour.

"The young people enjoyed picnics and boating, bowling, tennis, swimming and baseball. We had two literary societies "The Demosthenic Society for Gentlemen" and the "Friends in Council for Ladies," also there were quartets for both sexes and a "Mandolin and Guitar Club," whose music thrilled all who ever heard it."

President McKean smiled a trifle wistfully and said, "It certainly doesn't sound like Rollins of the 1960's."

President Seymour agreed. "They were simpler times; maybe they were happier." Then turning to President Ward he asked that very handsome gentleman, "What happened during your administration that seems pertinent in your recollection?"

"I understand you have been in Florida only a short time Dr. Seymour," Ward responded, "but perhaps you have heard about the Great Freeze of 1894-95. The repercussions from that freeze were far reaching. Many men lost their shirts and had to move out. In the spring of 1896 I assumed the Presidency, and in the fall when we returned we found the treasurer dead, the housekeeper married, and the Chairman of the Board of Trustees, resigned. There wasn't enough paint on the buildings to protect their nakedness. I contributed what little I could to save the college but it didn't help. The treasury was empty and debts became more and more pressing. Then February came. I always hated February, and that February was the shortest month that existed because those bills had to be paid on the first of the month. During the night before the first of March, I told the Almighty that if He was going to save this college He would have to do it Himself, that I was done. The next morning there was a pile of letters; as I opened the top one, out fell a check. That check was for several thousand dollars which saw us through the darkest years of the post-freeze depression. We still needed students however, and they couldn't afford to come. I asked a friend of mine to travel throughout the state and ferret out all possible prospective students and then, for those who applied but were short of funds, I helped find employment.

"Did your ministerial duties demand much of your time Dr. Ward?" asked Dr. Hooker.

"Yes, they did, Dr. Hooker. As General Secretary of the United Society of Christian Endeavor I had to speak in many parts of the United States and Canada and travel in those days was an arduous undertaking. In 1900, my old friend Henry Flagler asked me to accept the pastorate of the Royal Poinciana Chapel attached to his hotel in Palm Beach. I was there during the three-month winter season for thirty years."

"Would you describe what the Rollins campus was like during your day?" asked Dr. McKean.

"Six buildings stood around the Horseshoe. The original Knowles Hall contained recitation rooms and a chapel; Pinehurst Hall housed the school library, laboratory, a few offices and the President's quarters. We had a dining hall, the Lyman gym, the Lakeside dormitory for young men and the Cloverleaf dormitory for young women. Each dormitory was of moderate size and in each was a matron or member of the faculty, living there and supervising the students. Each dormitory room was arranged for a single occupant. Every effort was made to provide the student with a good Christian home-like atmosphere."

"No, it was not. Like other colleges established by the Congregational Church, schools such as Harvard, Yale, Dartmouth, Amhurst, Oberlin, and Carleton, almost immediately after the college was organized it became autonomous. Out of a total of twenty-one

Convocation Opens 93rd Year

The following are excerpts from the Convocation Address which Dr. Seymour delivered to the students, faculty and friends of Rollins on September 10, 1978, the opening of the ninety-third year of the College.

In a relatively short, but highly powerful speech, the new President was able to capture the feelings, memories and hopes of each element of the populace who attended the service.

"This is a happy moment for all of us, as we gather in the beautiful setting of the Knowles Memorial Chapel, ennobled by the beautiful music of our Choir, on this campus lovely beyond description, and in the company of old and new friends. For each of us, like the new students who gather here for the first time, the occasion is a blend of the excitement of new beginnings and the apprehension that we may not live up to ourselves or to each other. For me personally, it is the moment I have awaited for a long time, perhaps all of my life. I feel very much a freshman, and I am eager to get down to work."

Dr. Seymour continues by explaining Convocation as the affirmation of community, renewal, the life of the mind and the life of the heart. His strong belief in tradition and in the liberal arts form of higher education becomes self evident.

"Convocation affirms community. As we are called together, we become once again Rollins College. During the summer the campus was just buildings and people preparing for this year with paper, typewriters, and yes, calculating machines in the business office. But today we are whole again. You may have visited St. Paul's Cathedral in London, that magnificent building designed by Christopher Wren. He is buried there, and his epitaph says simply, "If you would see his monument, look about you." Well, if you would see Rollins College, look about you. Rollins is not a place, not buildings, not even courses, books, credits, and grades. Rollins is a human enterprise made up of students, faculty, staff, alumni, and the many friends whose loyalty and generosity make it possible for us to work together.

The measure of Rollins is the quality of our lives together and our ability to respect, enrich, and enjoy each other. We therefore begin this year in the spirit of reverence for the value of the individual, knowing that what is most special about Rollins is the open, personal, and friendly atmosphere of the College.

Convocation bespeaks renewal. This is the 94th time the College community has gathered to begin its work, and each year we both build on the past and make a fresh start into the future. Renewal is a dynamic process, concerned with the development of the individual and of the institution.

We are renewed today by the new blood flowing through this institution. Young in spirit and ineffaceable in beauty, we are called to be greater and wiser. Convocation is to a college what spring is to nature. Each of us feels the quickening of the spirit and the promise of new beginnings. Renewal is opportunity.

This ceremony is an academic exercise. Our symbol is the wonderfully antique and irrelevant garment which members of the faculty wear. Although it may now be constructed of Dacron and Polyester, the design has hardly changed in a thousand years and the shape and colors are wonderfully nonfunctional. You simply cannot use an academic gown for anything else, except maybe on Halloween. Robert Frost, who received hundreds of honorary hoods in his lifetime, had the best solution: he had a friend down the road who cut up his silken hoods to make quilts! The academic gown is pure symbol, for it affirms our scholastic, not vocational, mission, and it testifies to the life of the mind.

As I believe that community is more important than ever before, so do I believe that education is more important than ever, and that education in the liberal arts is most important of all. Liberal arts education provides the foundation for comprehensive thinking, for judgment, and for taste. The liberal arts set us free, not just from ignorance, but from narrowness, shallowness, and prejudice. I believe that the time has come for us to stop apologizing for the liberal arts and instead to proclaim their value and do all in our power to offer the strongest and best liberal arts education we can.

The whole purpose of the enterprise is teaching and learning, and I would have us emblazon over our gates the simple message: "Above all else, Rollins seeks to foster and encourage good teaching." Our goal should be to have this college know itself and be known by others as one of the finest liberal arts colleges in the country.

Finally, the setting for this ceremony is the Chapel, and it testifies to the missionary founding of the College, which originally served to provide preachers and teachers to this new community. We are no longer denominational, but we are no less missionary. Rollins is concerned with values, and we serve a society which is hungry for leaders and institutions of character. The goal of our education is to seek truth and to understand the difference between right and wrong. To be worthy of its mission, Rollins must be a force for good. Descartes said, "It is not enough to have a good mind. The main thing is to use it well."

This is the whole purpose and the whole justification for Rollins College, for knowledge without purpose betrays the mission of education. A wise friend described the aim of liberal education as simply the quest for "competence and conscience."

In his closing remarks the new President went back into the past of Rollins College, speaking of the College bell which he first learned about in Wilbur Dorsett's Diamond Jubilee Play, "A Song For Rollins." Dr. Seymour noted that as the bell rang to announce the founding of Rollins College in 1885, and rang to summon those attending the opening convocation of 1978, so we are all called to "join the succession of Rollins College which calls to dedicate ourselves to a future worthy of the past."

REUNION APPROACHES

By Robert M. Buck '05

The 1979 Alumni Reunion will be held on March 16-17-18, 1979, with all classes ending in 4 and 9 being anniversary years.

The Alumni Board decided that an era wrap-up reunion every few years would give those people who attended during the period an opportunity to renew old friendships. In keeping with this thought the 50s Era will be the Theme of the Reunion and the classes of the fifties will be especially featured. The small size of these classes and the casual Rollins atmosphere of the period caused most mid-fifties students to develop friendships that transcended the bounds of class and club.

If you have missed your class reunion during the past three years or would like to see some of your friends that graduated while you were still at Rollins, then this one is for you.

We are bringing back the N.C.A.A. championship baseball team of the mid-fifties to be honored with the other stars from our Sports Hall of Fame. We will feature current students entertaining at theme parties and other events around this colorful period in Rollins history.

This era has become so popular over the past few years, with T.V. shows like "Happy Days," and the revival of dress styles and music of the 50s, that the committee felt it would be a theme that would appeal to all alumni.

The opportunity should not be missed. Get together with your Rollins friends from the fifties and meet at the college this Spring for what promises to be one of the most interesting and entertaining reunions ever.

With air fares running as low as $125.00 round trip from New York and other northern cities, you can certainly budget this trip into your Winter vacation plans. A complete, low-cost package has been prepared for Reunion visitors that should appeal to the individual as well as the family.

If you attended Rollins in or around the fifties, you won't want to miss this golden opportunity. Start making plans today.

'54 Baseball Squad A Team To Remember

By Iris Wittbold

This year marks the 25th anniversary of when the Rollins tars brought home the trophy for second place in the '54 N.C.A.A. baseball championships. To this time, Rollins remains the smallest school to ever play in or advance to the finals of the N.C.A.A. Championships.

The exciting event of '54 gave Rollins national recognition and admiration; the little, Cinderella team that came to Omaha to battle collegiate giants. The fans in Omaha were fascinated by the colorful team from central Florida. Never before had there been such a crowd in the history of the college world series.

Coach Joe Justice remembers that it was tough for the Tars. Due to the economy, only 15 players could attend the championships. The team was pressured by time and money making the boys somewhat uptight. "It wasn't much fun and it was a lot of hard work" recalls Justice, "but the team's spirit was high."

For the many fans in Orlando and Winter Park, the Tars were truly hero's throughout the championships. The games were broadcast from Omaha on an Orlando radio station. George Hack's Candlelight restaurant called an Omaha radio station, requested that the station leave its phone off the hook, and set up a loudspeaker in the parking lot of the Candlelight so the crowd could hear it over the phone.

The Tars had 3 straight victories in the championships and were defeated in the last game by Missouri 4-1, giving the tars the runner up trophy. Upon arrival in Winter Park, those returning members of the team stepped off the train to quite a welcoming of anxious fans and mayors and a brass band. Coach Joe Justice was presented with an engraved red stick by the Winter Park Chamber of Commerce in memento of the original "good luck" piece which had become famous during the season and series.

Everyone enjoys remembering the good times, the great times they have had in the past and Joe Justice and the men who went to the N.C.A.A. National Baseball Championships in 1954 are no exception.

13 Named To Rollins Faculty

Dr. Dwight L. Ling, Provost of the College, recently announced that thirteen new faculty members have accepted appointments for the 1978-79 academic year.

Joining the Education Department as Assistant Professors are Dr. Emory Giles and Dr. Marie Shafe. Fresh from Dhahran, where he served as Superintendent of Saudi Arabia International Schools, Dr. Giles will teach educational administration and supervision and science methods. He earned his Ph.D. from the University of Minnesota and has taught at Eastern Illinois University as well as at the University of Utah.

Dr. Shafe received her doctorate from Indiana University and in 1976 was selected for the Outstanding Young Women of America. She comes to Rollins from Ohio University where she served as Assistant Professor in the School of Applied Behavior Science and Educational Leadership.

In the Department of Economics and Business Administration, Assistant Professor William J. Hepburn will teach courses in the areas of Management Marketing and Quantitative Methods. Hepburn received his B.S. from Rutgers University and his MBA from Rollins. Mr. Hepburn has been associated with Rollins as an instructor for 12 years and since 1974, has served as Chief Economist and Statistician for Florida Citrus Mutual.

Associate Professor Bill West comes to Rollins from Valdosta State. He received his BS and MCS degrees from Rollins prior to earning the Master of Professional Accountancy degree from Georgia State University.

And, from the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga, Dr. David M. Currie has been appointed Visiting Assistant Professor in Economics. He received his BS from the University of Florida, and his MBA and Ph.D. from the University of Southern California where he taught under a Research Management Improvement grant.

Native Floridian Roy J. Meadows has been appointed visiting instructor in Economics. Meadows earned his MBA at Rollins and his B.B.C. from the University of Florida.

LaRue Boyd returns to Rollins to serve as an instructor in the Department of Communications after several months absence to work on his doctoral studies at the University of Denver. He is the former editor of the University of Florida Magazine and recipient of the Time/Life Award for editorial excellence.

Dr. Persis C. Coleman, with her BA in Zoology and PhD in Genetics from the University of California, will serve as an Associate Professor in the Biology Department. She has been a Postdoctoral Fellow in the Department of Biological Services at Stanford University.

Also in Biology will be Visiting Professor Dr. David E. Matthews who comes to us from Cornell where he has been doing research under a Rockefeller Foundation Postdoctoral Fellowship.

Formerly with Illinois Institute of Technology, Dr. Douglas A. Coe has been appointed visiting assistant professor in the Chemistry Department. He received his B.S. in Chemistry from Montana State University and Ph.D. from Oregon State University and has numerous presentations and publications to his credit.

Visiting associate professor in the Political Science Department, Dr. Joyce R. Lilie received her M.A. and Ph.D. from the Johns Hopkins University. In addition to having taught at the University of Missouri and at Florida International University, Dr. Lilie is co-editor of the forthcoming book, Perspectives on Man: An Introduction to the Social Sciences. Her many awards and honors include a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship and a National Defense Education Act Fellowship.

Jeffrey M. Storer returns to his alma mater as visiting instructor in Theatre Arts and Speech. An Algernon Sydney Sullivan Scholar and listed in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, Storer received his M.T.A. from Illinois State University.

Named an instructor in Physical Education is Paul H. Harris who received his B.A. and M.A.T. from Rollins. Since 1971, Harris has taught at Rollins and has coached the Rollins Varsity Water Ski Team to national prominence.

Lane Makes History

Rollins history professor, Dr. Jack C. Lane is reaping well-earned praise for his recently published book, Armed Progressive, General Leonard Wood. Professor Allan Millett of Ohio State University describes Lane's book as "the first major scholarly treatment of Leonard Wood in forty years. . . readable and accurate . . . Lane handles the major issues of Wood's career with care and insight."

Dr. Lane's study focuses on the ambitious man who "roughed up with Teddy Roosevelt, feuded with General Pershing, opposed President Woodrow Wilson for his pacifism . . . and was admired and emulated by the young Douglas MacArthur."

Princeton critic, Richard Challener, lauds Lane's "successfully integrated military developments with the mainstream of American political, social, and economic history."

Needless to say, Dr. Lane expended considerable time and effort in researching and writing this contribution to the literature of American military history; and he notes, "Some of my former students would be interested to know that it was actually published!"

THEATRE BENEFIT SET

Mr. Paul Harris of the Rollins Athletic Department has announced that the February 11th presentation of "Look Homeward Angel" by the Rollins Players, will be set aside specifically for the Buster Steinnier Memorial Scholarship Fund. This is being sponsored by the Rollins Athletic Department as a memorial to Buster who was the athletic trainer at Rollins College for a decade. All former athletes who were associated with Buster are encouraged to attend this performance as are all alumni who would like to donate to this Scholarship Fund.

For tickets contact any Rollins athletic coach or the Rollins Athletic Office where tickets may be purchased. The cost is $5.00 per ticket and the Athletic Department would like to have a full house. Showtime is 8:30 p.m.

college president is very similar: never dull. The work entails dealing with a refreshing variety of people, situations and problems; consequently, no two days are alike for either of us, and very few are quiet. We love sports, theater, concerts, at least as spectators, and like any parents, take satisfaction in observing the development and achievements of young people. College administration is a constant education; while it is frustrating and tiring at times, the rewards are enormous, both for individuals and institutions. With the increasing informality of American customs, I think the old-fashioned and rigid expectation of a college president's family is disappearing; we certainly feel that we can be entirely ourselves in the work of representing, interpreting and encouraging Rollins. A college president's spouse has unique opportunities for constructive involvement; I intend to participate fully but I am grateful that the "role" for me here is neither confining nor proscribed. I do like cooking and giving parties, for large or small numbers, so what might be an unwelcome project for some administrators is, fortunately, a pleasure for us. The beautiful Rollins setting invites campus gatherings and we look forward to entertaining at the college as well as at home.

The Winter Park area boasts an appealing variety of community activities. The possibilities for work, study or volunteering are impressive to a new resident. My prior interests have touched on historic preservation, museum and gallery projects, public relations and journalism, graphics and design, volunteer remedial teaching and health aide work. With decreasing family demands, perhaps one of these fields will provide me with a "second" career eventually. Meantime, Rollins and our new responsibilities here are first priority; so far, we do love being at Rollins, and we look forward to a long and happy association with a wonderful college.

NEWS FROM AROUND CAMPUS

ALBERT PICK, JR.

Rollins College President Dr. Thaddeus Seymour has announced the receipt of a $25,000 bequest from the estate of Albert Pick, Jr., former hotel executive from Chicago, Illinois.

The bequest will provide the College with an endowment which will produce income for the Albert Pick, Jr. Scholarship Fund. The scholarship will be designated for students in the field of Music or Theatre Arts.

Albert Pick, Jr. was the past president of the La Rabida Children's Hospital and Research Center as well as past director, president and chairman of the Pick Hotels Corporation.

"As you look back over your three different terms as President of Rollins, is there any one particular feeling that comes to mind?" Dr. Critchfield queried.

"Dr. Critchfield, if I could keep but one experience of my life, I would keep the years at Winter Park. I learned there the real discipline of life."

Holt said reflectively, "Dr. Ward, I think the college owes you a great deal. It's a pity we let the memory of good men slip into oblivion."

ROLLINS GAINS DIPLOMAT

By Mrs. Sandy Jones '66

Rollins is one of only eleven colleges in the nation able to boast of having a diplomat-in-residence. Lloyd Michael Rives, Deputy Chief of the United States mission in Jakarta, Indonesia, has been named Diplomat-in-Residence at Rollins for the 1978-79 academic year.

Usually, large universities with regional impact are chosen, but according to Mr. Rives, Rollins' high academic standards and considerable regional impact contributed to the selection.

"It is very much an honor for Rollins to have been chosen to have a representative," said Rives. "I

ENVIRONMENTAL PROGRAMS
By Mrs. Sandy Jones '66

In a continuing effort in support of the Environmental Studies Program and Environmental Lectures Series Program at Rollins College the Gordon J. Barnett Foundation has awarded the College a grant of $11,660, according to Executive Vice President Dr. Fred W. Hicks.

The grant will provide $7,000 for use by the Environmental Studies Program while $4,660 will sponsor the highly successful Lecture Series Program which runs during the Winter Term.

The Environmental Studies Program, now in its infancy at Rollins, will use the grant money to improve the curriculum while also working to increase the number of students enrolled in the program and majoring in the field.

The Barnett Winter Term Lecture Series for 1979 will tentatively look at "Steady State Economics and its Implications." The initial lecture, of the three which are planned, will feature a nationally recognized economist who is a proponent of the series theme. Rollins faculty members will present the final lectures from their own points of view.

"Through the generosity of the Barnett Foundation Rollins has been able to develop a highly innovative, attractive, and meaningful program in the areas of environmental studies," said Rollins Executive Vice President, Dr. Fred W. Hicks.

Two Resign Posts

By Mrs. Sandy Jones '66

Farewells... President Seymour and the Rollins family offered best wishes and much appreciation to two fine members of our administration, Charles N. Zellers and General Edward O. Martin, who resigned in August and September respectively.

Having served Rollins as Financial Vice-President and Treasurer for the past eight years, Zellers will continue to teach courses in the business program at Rollins for the balance of his contract year. He will will primarily lecture at Rollins, but I will be available to any of Florida's colleges or universities, time permitting."

A seasoned diplomat, Rives will draw on his own experiences to bring fresh perspectives to Rollins students while offering advice on and recruiting for the foreign service.

Rives graduated from Princeton University and joined the foreign service in 1950. Europe, Southeast Asia, Latin America and Africa have benefitted from his diplomatic service, and the Rollins family looks forward to the new dimension Mr. Rives offers our college this year.

RE-ENGLISHING

The Graduate Program in Education and the English Department at Rollins College will sponsor a Re-Englishing Workshop in English and American Literature November 17-18 at the college.

The workshop will provide graduate students, teachers, and language arts coordinators with an opportunity to share their ideas and insights about literature as opposed to techniques and methods. Individual sessions will focus on introducing new writers, examining approaches to established authors and works, and discussing new trends in literature and criticism.

The program will include such topics as Autobiography, Contemporary Literature, Mythology, Ethnic Literature, Science Fiction and Popular Literature, and Literature and Other Fields. Each session will involve a speaker or panel of experts from the Rollins faculty or local and private schools, a panel of respondents, and an open discussion period.

Cost for the workshop is $25 which is payable to the Graduate Program in Education, Rollins College, Box 2726, Winter Park, Florida 32789 or $30 at registration at 9:00 a.m., November 17 in the lobby of the Crummer School of Business at Rollins.

TAR CAGERS READY FOR SEASON

HUTNICK

By Steve Todd

Senior tennis star Felicia Hutnick was named to the 1978 Coaches All-America Large College Tennis Team last June 10, at Salisbury State College in Salisbury, Maryland. Salisbury State College was the 1978 host of the AIAW National Championships.

When Hutnick found out that she was named to the All-America team, "I was overwhelmed. I didn't have a very good season, so I really didn't think I would be chosen."

The choice of All-America is based on the individuals season play, how well they play in the National Championships, and their general attitude toward the game.

"Felicia is probably the best liked personality in the Intercollegiate," stated women's varsity tennis coach Ginny Mack, "simply because she is a tough competitor. She is a true sportswoman."

A significant reason for Hutnick's being chosen All-America, according to Mack, was her performance at the AIAW Large College Championship.

Despite losing in the first round of the singles competition, she picked herself up and came back to win the consolations.

While Hutnick was named All-America, Rollins as a team was awarded a 5th place national ranking in the Large College Division.

ROLLINS POSTS THIRD

The Rollins Waterski Team posted a third place finish at the First Annual Intercollegiate Tournament which was held September 23-24 at the University of Georgia.

Jean Corson, a junior at Rollins, placed first in Women's tricks contributing to an overall first place finish in the women's category. Rollins placed fourth in the overall men's. Sophomore Bob Schouten was the top male skier for Rollins.

Seventeen schools participated in the event. Florida Southern placed first and Florida State took second.

ROLLINS GOLFERS

Rollins College golfers Scott Cooke and Laurie Been were recently named to the 1978 All America Team at the NCAA National Golf Championships in Lakeland, Fla.

For Cooke, a junior at Rollins, this marks the second time he has been chosen as an All America performer. Head Golf Coach Joe Justice said Cooke is expected to be one of the top players on this year's team.

"Rollins is the only school in the country to have two students receive All America honors for four consecutive years," Justice said. Former students include Mike Ford (1970-73) and Fred Schick (1969-72).

TARS FIRST

The Women's Tennis Team at Rollins College opened the 1978-79 season with a major victory as they fulfilled Head Coach Ginny Mack's prediction and took the number one spot at the Third Annual Lady Tiger Invitational which was held recently at Louisiana State University.

Southern Methodist University placed second, Trinity third, and Louisiana State University fourth.

The Tars also secured a victory over Louisiana State University (9-0) in their first match of the season October 5.

MSM ENROLLMENTS ...On The Rise

A comparative study of Fall Semester 1977 with the Fall Semester 1978 in numbers of students and registrations shows an increase in both measures in the MSM Program. Although the number of applications for the MBA Program has increased threefold for the Fall Semester 1978 as compared to the Fall Semester 1977, the number of students actually enrolling was about the same as last year. This resulted principally from two factors: low scores on the GRE or GMAT exam; and inability of some students being able to afford the program without substantial scholarship or fellowship aid.

FACULTY CLUB UPDATE

By Dr. Larry Cotanche

In May 1975, the sub-committee for the Lounge, consisting of Pat Lancaster, Joe Mulson, and Larry Cotanche, sent out a call to all faculty members to meet for the purpose of forming a Faculty Club. At the meeting the club was constituted with some twenty members. Larry, Joe, and Pat were elected to serve as a temporary Executive Board, with Pat as chairman and Joe as Secretary-Treasurer. The charter members of the Club, as well as others who subsequently joined, all served as an advisory board to decide Club policy. The members also volunteered to participate in the Liberal Arts Forum, which, through the cooperation of Dan Riva, has become the Club's major source of income.

The Liberal Arts Forum, offered by the School of Continuing Education, is a series of lectures taught by volunteers from the Faculty Club. The lectures deal either with contemporary issues or with the changing roles of various disciplines in today's liberal arts curriculum.

During the summer of 1975 Dale Amlund, set designer for Annie Russell Theatre, and Tom Wells, Director of Physical Plant coordinated the transformation of Dyer Hall from a music classroom to an attractive Faculty Lounge.

The Club sponsors a variety of social and academic activities during the school year. These activities include special dinners and luncheons, holiday events, Faculty Forums, and a variety of special meetings on current issues at the college. Coffee and other beverages are provided for Club members daily. During the year the Club will sponsor four to five dinners (meals and beverages), two luncheons, and a variety of parties for its members and spouses.

Two special luncheons were held recently at the Club. Last Spring, the Faculty Club presented to Hugh F. McKean the first Distinguished Colleague Award at a luncheon in his honor. Many current and retired faculty members attended this special presentation. On September 29, the Club sponsored a New Faculty Luncheon at which time new faculty were entertained and special thanks were given to Dr. Pat Lancaster for her efforts on behalf of the Faculty Club.

Special events are an important feature of the Faculty Club; however, an essential function of the Club is to provide a very private place for faculty members to relax and talk.

On Pinehurst Information Needed

By Paul Taylor Zeph, '79

Dear Alumni:

As many of you well know, Pinehurst is the oldest building on the campus as of now. Despite this historical fact, we have very little actual information about the building or its past history. Having lived in the house for three years, I have developed an affection for it and a desire to compile a complete history of the building for posterity; But I need your help!

I am appealing to anyone having any information that would help in this research to send photographs, stories, anecdotes or other interesting facts regarding Pinehurst or your experiences while living there, in care of the Rollins College Alumni Office. The clip on this page is provided for your convenience. All materials will be filed in the College archives unless specifically requested to be returned.

Your assistance in preserving the memory of this wonderful old building will be greatly appreciated.

ALUMNI AGENTS VERY SPECIAL

An Alumni/College Agent for Rollins College is an alumni volunteer representing both the Alumni Association and the College speaking directly to alumni. The Agent acts as a "communications person" on behalf of the college community and the alumni constituency he/she contacts and serves. The Alumni Annual Fund committee developed the Alumni/College Agent Programs to effect a change in the "percent of donor participation" in the Alumni Annual Fund through personal contact - an alum asking an alum for personal support of the College. The Agent program is needed to create a network of Alumni/College representatives capable of telling the "Rollins Story" to alumni. Agents responding to the needs and concerns of the institution, as well as those of alumni, will be an effective, on going communications system for both alumni and the College. It is needed at this time and must be in place and working effectively in the future.

The Alumni/College Agent program is an important element in the development of a total program of support for Rollins College. The Alumni Annual Fund Committee views an agent as a - communicator of facts - a cheerleader for the College - a backer of a good cause - a believer in providing financial cation and the continuance of the private educational system.

Our 126 agents are located in all areas of the country where alumni number twenty or more. The areas with 100 or more alumni are called Regions. There are eight (8) regions with each region headed by a Regional Agent. The Regional Agent works with other volunteers (Area Agents) in his region to coordinate the activities of the Agent Program. The areas having less than 100 or more alumni have been sub-divided and assigned to volunteers (Area Agents).

The alumni volunteers serving as Regional Agents and Area Agents are listed on this page along with the area they have been assigned. If you receive a communication from one of these volunteers, please make a positive response to their appeal for your support of Rollins.

It is vitally important to the College that each alumnus/alumnae contribute each year regardless of the amount. Donor participation is essential because it demonstrates alumni support for their alma mater.

The sample of the efforts of the agents in making contact with fellow alumni is exemplified by the letter prepared by Luverne P. Hinson, '41 to her alumni contacts. This letter articulates Rollins' "case" for support extremely well.

Dear Alum,

I never volunteer my services unless I truly believe in the Cause I'd be helping! This year, Rollins needed-and sought-Area Agents for the Alumni Annual Fund Drive. Even after thirty-seven years as an Alum, I still get a terrific feeling of nostalgia and pride for my Alma Mater. Thus, it was with love that I offered my services as an agent. I wish I could be one of those who sends in large donations each year, but since I'm not, I do send a check and volunteer my time when it is needed. This is one of those times.

Everyone is all-too-familiar with the term "Inflation." Colleges everywhere and their students are all well aware of it, too. Rollins is no exception. It needs all our help more now than ever before. I could waste time and paper quoting all kinds of statistics, pour out endless reams of "why" we should contribute "our bit" to give Rollins an extra special boost this year-but I'm not going to! (If you're anything like me, you'd get up tight and toss the whole bit into the trashcan!)

So, Alum, all I'm doing today is asking you to please send a check-regardless of the amount-to our current Fund Drive. Your previous contributions were truly appreciated, and it'd make me feel terribly proud if you'd take the time to get it in the mail this week!

I am enclosing a couple of folders that show how Rollins is continuing to grow. Just reading it all myself makes me wish I could "turn back the clock" and "do it all over again."

Thanks for listening! And I do hope I'll see your name on the Donor's List!

Yours, in Rollins Bond,
Luverne P. Hinson '41

By Stephanie Crooks

The Placement Office at Rollins College is increasing their efforts to assist graduating seniors who are seeking challenging and rewarding career opportunities. This year Director of Placement Dr. Alzo Reddick has embarked on a major campaign in an attempt to bring over 3,000 national and local companies to recruit on the Rollins campus.

"The response has been very supportive of our efforts," said Dr. Reddick who has already received over 350 positive responses as a result of a direct mailing which was completed in late August. Not all of the respondents were able to send a representative to recruit on campus, but enclosed material on their companies and expressed a strong interest in receiving resumes of graduating seniors at Rollins.

Last year the Placement Office brought 21 companies to the Rollins campus. At this time 12 companies have scheduled interviews and requests are expected to continue and increase toward the end of the year.

"We have brought Rollins graduates to the attention of a number of national businesses that have not been recruiting on small college campuses previously," Dr. Reddick said.
